NEW QUESTION: 2

Identify four actions that the Manage Requisition Approval task enables you to perform.

- A. maintain user-defined attributes and use these attributes with rules
- B. register an internal and external Supplier
- C. create rules by using simple or nested conditions
- D. define rule actions by using Supervisory Hierarchy or Position Hierarchy
- E. enable or disable a participant

Answer: A,C,D,E

Explanation:

The new Manage Requisition Approval task provides a simple and user-friendly interface for approval rules management. This task allows you to:

Enable or disable a participant.

Create rules using simple or nested conditions. Condition attributes displayed in this interface are consistent with the attribute names displayed in the application. Attribute values can be chosen from a List of Values or a Choicelist, when applicable.

Define rule actions that:

- o Use Supervisory Hierarchy, Job Level, Position Hierarchy, Approval Group, Single User, or Custom routings.
- o Require approvals, automatically approve, or send information notifications.

Mark a rule active or inactive.

Maintain user-defined attributes and use these attributes across rules.

o Currency based attributes are used to setup conversions of amount or price type attributes to a specific currency used in rule evaluations.

o Custom attributes are used to achieve complex approval requirements and custom approval lists and map to the Procurement Custom Function output.

o Summation attributes support the aggregation of data across lines or distributions based on a set of filters. The filters can be set up using requisition attributes or based on roll-ups in the Procurement Category Hierarchy, Cost Center, Balancing Segment, Management Segment, or Natural Account hierarchies
