Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Explanation

A: Increase the throughput during the migration by increasing the Request Units (RUs).

For customers that are migrating many collections within a database, it is strongly recommend to configure database-level throughput. You must make this choice when you create the database. The minimum database-level throughput capacity is 400 RU/sec. Each collection sharing database-level throughput requires at least 100 RU/sec.

B: By default, Azure Cosmos DB indexes all your data fields upon ingestion. You can modify the indexing policy in Azure Cosmos DB at any time. In fact, it is often recommended to turn off indexing when migrating data, and then turn it back on when the data is already in Cosmos DB.
