NEW QUESTION: 1
A storage group named MED_SG was created as follows:
CREATE STOGROUP med_sg ON db2fs1 db2fs2 '/db2fs3' Then, a table space named TS1 was created in the storage group and two tables (TAB_A and TAB_B) were created in the TS1 table space. Four months later, a DBA discovered that 90% of the space that had been allocated to the MED_SG storage group had been consumed. So, more space was added to the storage group by executing the following command:
ALTER STOGROUP med_sg ADD db2fs4
ALTER STOGROUP med_sg ADD db2fs4
Shortly afterwards, queries against tables in the TS1 table space began to run slower.
Which statement should be executed to correct the performance problem?

A. ALTER TABLESPACE ts1 ADD '/db2fs4' REBALANCE
B. ALTER STOGROUP med_sg DROP '/db2fs4'
C. ALTER TABLESPACE ts1 REBALANCE
D. ALTER STOGROUP med_sg ADD db2fs5ALTER STOGROUP med_sg ADD db2fs5
Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2
Addressing QoS design in the Enterprise Campus network for IP Telephony applications means what?
A. It is critical to identify aggregation and rate transition points in the network, where preferred traffic and congestion QoS policies should be enforced
B. Applications and Traffic flows should be classified, marked and policed within the Enterprise Edge of the Enterprise Campus network
C. Suspect traffic should be dropped closest to the source, to minimize wasting network resources
D. An Edge traffic classification scheme should be mapped to the downstream queue configuration
Answer: A
Explanation:
https://www.cisco.com/c/en/us/support/docs/switches/catalyst-4500-series- switches/69632-configuring-cat-ip-phone.html#topic1
When you connect an IP phone to a switch using a trunk link, it can cause high CPU utilization in the switches. As all the VLANs for a particular interface are trunked to the phone, it increases the number of STP instances the switch has to manage. This increases the CPU utilization. Trunking also causes unnecessary broadcast / multicast / unknown unicast traffic to hit the phone link. In order to avoid this, remove the trunk configuration and keep the voice and access VLAN configured along with Quality of Service (QoS).
Technically, it is still a trunk, but it is called a Multi-VLAN Access Port (MVAP). Because voice and data traffic can travel through the same port, you should specify a different VLAN for each type of traffic. You can configure a switch port to forward voice and data traffic on different VLANs. Configure IP phone ports with a voice VLAN configuration. This configuration creates a pseudo trunk, but does not require you to manually prune the unnecessary VLANs.

NEW QUESTION: 3
You develop an ASP.NET MVC application. The application has several Razor views.
The application must execute different server-side code for desktop and mobile devices.
You need to choose an approach to support mobile devices.

Which two approaches can you use? Each correct answer presents a complete solution.
A. Use different controllers and view for both desktop and mobile browsers, but render the views using Bootstrap framework.
B. Use different controllers and views for both desktop and mobile browsers, but render the views with the same Razor layout depending on the device type.
C. Use the same controllers for both desktop and mobile browsers, but render different views depending on the device type.
D. Create separate areas for desktop and mobile browsers, implementing independent controllers and views for each.
Answer: B,D

Explanation:
How ASP.NET MVC applications can present mobile-specific pages Since the Model-View-Controller pattern decouples application logic (in controllers) from presentation logic (in views), you can choose from any of the following approaches to handling mobile support in server-side code:
1. Create separate areas for desktop and mobile browsers, implementing independent controllers and views for each. This option works best if you're displaying very different screens, containing different information and leading the user through different workflows optimized for their device type. It may mean some repetition of code, but you can minimize that by factoring out common logic into an underlying layer or service.
2. Use the same controllers for both desktop and mobile browsers, but render different views depending on the device type. This option works best if you're displaying roughly the same data and providing the same workflows for end users, but want to render very different HTML markup to suit the device being used.
3. Use the same controllers and views for both desktop and mobile browsers, but render the views with different Razor layouts depending on the device type. This option works best if you're displaying identical data on all devices, but simply want to supply different CSS stylesheets or change a few top-level HTML elements for mobiles.
