Referring to the exhibit, you notice that filter-based forwarding is not working.
What is the reason for this behavior?
A. The RIB group is configured incorrectly.
B. The routing instance is configured incorrectly.
C. The routing policy is configured incorrectly.
D. The default static routes are configured incorrectly.
Answer: B
Explanation:
By default, we have a static route in a routing instance sending the default route to 172.19.1.2. We want to hijack traffic matching a particular filter and send the traffic to a different next-hop, 172.18.1.1. Weshould create your rib group by importing FIRST the table belonging to your virtual router and SECOND the table for the forwarding instance that has the next-hop specified.
