NEW QUESTION: 1

How should a risk be handled when the cost of the countermeasure outweighs the cost of the risk?

- A. Reject the risk.
- B. Perform another risk analysis.
- C. Accept the risk.
- D. Reduce the risk.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Once a company knows the risk it is faced with, it must decide how to handle it. Risk can be dealt with in four basic ways: transfer it, avoid it, reduce it, or accept it.

One approach is to accept the risk, which means the company understands the level of risk it is faced with, as well as the potential cost of damage, and decides to just live with it and not implement the countermeasure. Many companies will accept risk when the cost/benefit ratio indicates that the cost of the countermeasure outweighs the potential loss value.

Incorrect Answers:

A: Rejecting a risk is not a valid method of dealing with risk.
B: Performing another risk analysis will not help. It will most likely return the same results as the previous risk analysis.
D: Reducing the risk would require a countermeasure. In this question, the countermeasure outweighs the cost of the risk.

NEW QUESTION: 2

HOTSPOT

Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The network contains a DHCP server named DHCP1. You add a new network segment to the network.

On the new network segment, you deploy a new server named Server1 that runs Windows Server 2012 R2.

You need to configure Server1 as a DHCP Relay Agent. Which server role should you install on Server1?

To answer, select the appropriate role in the answer area.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

If you opt to create a centralized or hybrid DHCP infrastructure, you will need a DHCP relay agent on every subnet that does not have a DHCP server on it. Many routers are capable of functioning as DHCP relay agents, but in situations where they are not, you can configure a Windows Server 2012 computer to function as a relay agent.

In Windows Server 2012 R2 the DirectAccess feature and the RRAS role service were combined into a new unified server role. This new Remote Access server role allows for centralized administration, configuration, and monitoring of both DirectAccess and VPN-based remote access services.

Additionally, Windows Server 2012 R2 DirectAccess provided multiple updates and improvements to address deployment blockers and provide simplified management.
